KIBO-R Simple Programming

The KIBO works with the V2 Personal Pass system and to work the keypad MUST be on the same contract code as the existing system or it will not link. Please contact us if you are having problems and believe you may have a different contract code.

The factory default programming code is 999999 we suggest you do not change this as it cannot be reset if you forget the code you change it to.

You can use up to 9 separate user codes starting with the number 1-9 – no repeats.

To program a user code.

Press A twice

C999999C
2C
number 1-9 (– same as first number of user code to be entered)C user code C
repeat user code C

----

so for example user code 4321

AA C999999C
2C
4C
4321C
4321C

long beep and red lights on completion. When you tap in 4321 now the red led light should come on.

You now have to link the unit to the receiver or control board – press the learn button on the receiver as you would to code in a new transmitter then key in the user code. You will have to do this for each individual user code if you are using more than one.
